Canada Day trade. Marc Methot says he found out about his move from the Blue Jackets via Twitter

GRAHAM LANKTREE

Traded to his hometown team on Canada Day, the Ottawa Senators' new defenceman Marc Methot said he's overwhelmed by all the support he's getting.

"I'm pretty passionate about playing in my home city," he said. "You're playing for your family and friends and you don't want to let them down. It's been awesome, but very overwhelming."

The 27-year-old Methot said he found out on Twitter about his trade from Columbus, where he has played all his 275 NHL career games, before getting the official word from the team's general manager Scott Howson. Before joining Columbus in 2006, Methot played for the OHL's London Knights from 2002 to 2005, winning the Memorial Cup with the team in 2004-05.

Already Methot said he's feeling welcome on the Senators team after getting a call from centre Jason Spezza. "Spezza called me to congratulate me the day I was traded on Canada Day. They're a hard working team with a good work ethic. So I think I'll fit right in."

Methot said he intends to use his speed and size to play against tough lines of opposing teams.

"I know what I'm capable of," he said. "I'm capable of shutting down lines."

Last year, Methot scored a goal and six assists with the Blue Jackets before missing the final 28 games after breaking his jaw.

Nepean Equestrian Park lease with NCC must end: Committee

Final vote next week.

Getting out of the horse-riding biz will save more than $320,000: Report

joe.lofaro@metronews.ca

The city's finance and economic development committee voted Tuesday to recommend that council not renew a lease for the 25-year-old Nepean National Equestrian Park on Corkstown Road, even as members of the public pleaded with councillors to keep the park running.

The park has run a $140,000-per-year deficit since the city implemented a cost-recovery model for the operation six years ago, according to a committee report. The report says the city could save $320,658 if it pulls out of the lease with the National Capital Commission.

City council will put the finance committee's recommendation to a final vote next week.

What will happen to the Nepean Equestrian Park? City staff said the park's owner, the National Capital Commission, will look for a different operator. Here are some public delegates' suggestions:

- The city keep running the park.
- Wealthy philanthropists take over.
- A public-private partnership.
- A private firm takes over.

Nurses to get cash infusion in discrimination settlement

Nurses who worked as medical adjudicators for the Canada Pension Plan will get more than $150 million collectively in a gender-discrimination settlement.

Ruth Walden, a registered nurse and medical adjudicator with the Canada Pension Plan disability program, filed the original complaint in 2004. By 2007, more than 400 other nurses had filed their own. Now more than 700 nurses — working and retired — are being compensated, the union representing the nurses said at a press conference held in Ottawa Tuesday.

"Of course, this settlement is a compromise because it does not provide us with full compensation for our losses," said Walden. "But we're very happy that all the victims of the discriminatory practice will be compensated."

A Canadian Human Rights Tribunal found medical adjudicators have been discriminated against based on gender and were mis-classified and received smaller wages and benefits as a result.

"We're also celebrating an important victory for the nursing profession and for all Canadians," said Walden. "We're very proud to have made a contribution to justice and fairness in the workplace."

NOURAN ABDELLATIF/FOR METRO

By the numbers

Nurses will get lump sums depending on when they worked. Below are per-year compensation levels for three periods of service.

- 1978-1989: $20,000
- 1990-99: $40,000
- 1999-2011: $16,500

Pain-and-suffering compensation of $400 will be paid out for every year of employment.

Nurses who worked 1978-2011 could collect $260,000.

Algonquin College student Mohamed Mohamed casts his ballot in Ottawa on Tuesday, the first day of the Libyan National Congress election. JOE LOFARO/METRO

Voting sessions

Tuesday was the first day of out-of-country voting for the Libyan National Congress election. Eligible voters in Canada have until Saturday to vote.

Only six countries outside of Libya — Canada, the United States, Germany, the United Arab Emirates, Jordan and the United Kingdom — are running voting sessions ahead of the Libyan vote on July 7.

Voting in Canada takes place on the second floor of Tom Brown Hall at 141 Bayview Rd. in Ottawa.

The election will choose 200 members to form the National General Congress in Libya.

joe.lofaro@metronews.ca

As he cast his ballot in Libya's first free election on Tuesday, Algonquin College student Mohamed Mohamed reflected on the four months he spent fighting there alongside revolutionary forces.

He said he fought in his home country for the overthrow of Moammar Gadhafi's 42-year dictatorship and for a democratic government.

"Now the voting and stuff, the reality sunk in that Libya's different. It's a new Libya," the 22-year-old said Tuesday after voting at Tom Brown Hall on Bayview Road. "This is a turning point for all Libyans."

Mohamed said he left his oil-industry job in Fort McMurray to join the revolutionary forces in Misrata, where he worked with a vehicle equipped with missiles.

"I was fighting for something I believed in strongly," he said, draped in a large Libyan flag.

"Coming back in Canada, you're actually thankful and grateful for all this stuff we take for granted, you know, in our daily lives, like having a safe ride home."

He said the Libyan National General Congress election will bring the country back to a "normal, civilized society."

As voters registered with organizers and dabbed their index fingers with dye, many of them were calling it a "historic" vote they once thought would never happen.

E-bikes' growing popularity revs up the city's education blitz

It's not a bike, it's not a motorcycle and it's not a scooter, yet e-bikes are becoming more and more popular across the city as people look for alternative transport in the face of high gas prices.

In a public meeting Tuesday evening, Ottawa police planned to team up with the city to let people know some of the rules around these new additions to city streets.

"In bus fares alone, I've saved $800 bucks since I bought the bike last October," said Steve Kemball, an e-bike enthusiast, adding that his ride cost about $700. "I've been using it quite a lot because I don't have a driver's licence and don't intend on getting one."

Unlike scooters, e-bikes don't have combustion engines; unlike bicycles, they aren't powered only by pedals.

France. L'Oréal heiress suspected of providing illegal campaign cash to Sarkozy's party during 2007 campaign

French investigators searched former president Nicolas Sarkozy's home and office on Tuesday as part of a probe into suspected illegal financing of his 2007 presidential campaign by the L'Oréal cosmetics heiress, an official said.

The probe centres on the finances of France's richest woman, L'Oréal cosmetics heiress Liliane Bettencourt.

A long-running family feud over her fortune ballooned in 2010 into a multi-layered investigation and political affair. Allegations emerged that Bettencourt provided illegal campaign cash to Sarkozy's party during the 2007 campaign. Sarkozy vigorously denies the claims.

The allegations struck a chord with Sarkozy's critics, who were frustrated with Sarkozy's handling of the recession-hit economy and saw him as too cozy with the rich.

Syria using torture centres to fight uprising: Group

Syrian security forces are running more than two dozen torture centres where captors punch staples into detainees' skin, tear out their fingernails, beat them with sticks and administer electric shocks to their genitals and other body parts, an international rights group said Tuesday.

The New York-based Hu-

"The systematic patterns of ill-treatment and torture that Human Rights Watch documented clearly point to a state policy of torture and

It called on the United Nations Security Council to refer the situation in Syria to the International Criminal Court in the Hague and to impose sanctions on those who practice or oversee torture.

Making neighbours green with envy

Peterborough project.

Students on target to build Canada's greenest home

Table saws buzz. Hammers bang. The scent of lumber perfumes the summer air as dust floats on the breeze.

Safety-gear-wearing workers move through the framed lower level of a 2,000-square-foot home and prepare the second floor for wall installation.

Bits of straw poke out of the prefabricated, straw-bale-insulated walls that will be erected on the second floor of what builders hope will be Canada's greenest home.

It's being built in Peterborough, Ont.

"The process of doing a green building is, in a lot of ways, very similar to traditional building," said Chris Magwood, director of Endeavour Centre, the sustainable construction school undertaking this residential project.

Eight students, ranging in age from 19 to the early 50s, have signed up for the Endeavour Centre's Sustainable New Construction certificate program to learn what it takes to build a

The students made the 16-inch-thick, eight-foot-tall, one-tonne walls themselves as part of a one-day lesson with Nature Built, the Welland, Ont.-based company that manufactures them.

Many builders have never heard of the elements going into this structure: Think insulation made from ground-up off-cuts of blue jeans and walls made by hand using bales of straw.

• By the time the students are finally finished their handiwork, the Peterborough home will look like a typical residence in the neighbourhood.

• "At the end of the day, for the homeowner, you'd never know that you're living in a sustainable home, except for it makes it a little bit

• While working on the house, many of the students have also discovered other potential careers ... as tradespeople in the slowly growing green-building industry.

When life begins. Group is short of signatures in anti-abortion battle

An anti-abortion group in Ohio has failed in its attempt to gather enough signatures to change the state constitution to declare that life begins when a human egg is fertilized.

Backers of the proposed constitutional amendment in Ohio and elsewhere hope to spark a legal challenge to the U.S. Supreme Court's 1973 Roe vs. Wade decision that gave women a legal right to abortion.

Patrick Johnston, director of Personhood Ohio, said

Tuesday the group collected only about 33,000 of the roughly 385,000 signatures that are required for a November vote.

Supporters in Ohio had hoped to alleviate concerns that the amendment could make some birth control illegal and deter in vitro fertilization.

They had phrased their proposed amendment to say it wouldn't affect "genuine contraception" or in vitro procedures.

Student mauled. Chimps won't die for vicious attack, investigator says

Two adult chimpanzees that viciously attacked a U.S. student at a sanctuary in South Africa were defending their territory and will be allowed to live, the lead government investigator said Tuesday.

Conservationist Dries Piernaar blamed human error for Thursday's attack.

Andrew Oberle crossed between two fences to retrieve a rock the chimps were in the habit of throwing at tourists.

Oberle was in critical condition and in a medically induced coma in the hospital by Monday night. On Tuesday, doctors refused to describe his condition, saying the family, which has arrived from the United States, is traumatized and asking for privacy.

Pienaar said the chimps tore off one of Oberle's testicles and some fingers from one hand as well as mauling his head.

Big feet, fat wallet saved Canadian, parents say

Kenya. Kidnapped aid workers rescued by pro-government Somali militia on Monday

Big feet and a fortuitously placed wallet helped save the day for a Canadian aid worker snatched at gunpoint at a Kenyan refugee camp and marched with three other captors across the border into Somalia, his parents said Tuesday.

Clearly relieved after days of frantic worry, Carol-Ann and Peter Dennis were able to share some of the humour that helped sustain their son Steve Dennis during his ordeal.

"He's tall, so he's got big feet," Carol-Ann said.

"The trackers could track them because they could see the big foot and some little feet in the pattern of walking."

"In Steve's case, it happened to hit him right in his wallet that he carries in his front (leg) pocket — it bruised him a little bit," his father said.

"He said he was saved by his credit cards."

Benefits. Feds scrambled to revise policy on refugee health coverage

The Conservatives were forced to amend their policy on cutting off benefits for refugee claimants just forty-eight hours before it came into effect.

A spokesperson for Immigration Minister Jason Kenney said Tuesday the end of extended health benefits for refugee claimants was never meant to apply to government-assisted refugees.

But with a June 30 deadline looming on the proposed changes, the department realized that's exactly how the new rules would apply — and officials were forced to get cabinet approval for an amendment.

The approval came through only at the last minute: The order-in-council making the change was signed on June 28 and published Tuesday.

The policy — which strips refugee claimants of access to pharmaceutical, dental and vision coverage and limits other forms of coverage — had been announced in April.

It's projected to save the government $20 million a year for the next five years. At the time, the Conservatives said the changes were meant to ensure refugee claimants didn't get better health benefits than average Canadians.

But the change was met by immediate and sustained criticism from advocacy groups who accused the Conservatives of denying care to some of the

RIM boss goes on the defensive

'Nothing wrong.'

Heins attempts to cast tech company's current challenges in a positive light

Research In Motion chief executive Thorsten Heins was on the defensive Tuesday, insisting "there's nothing wrong with the company as it exists right now," and that he's confident the BlackBerry maker will get past its current challenges.

Heins led the march of several executives who fanned out to media outlets in an effort to cast a positive glow on the company, which has been facing an increasing amount of negativity over its seemingly endless problems.

Last week, RIM shocked the market with another delay to its crucial BlackBerry 10 operating system, which has been considered by many as a last-ditch effort to save the company. But that was only part of the bad news.

RIM also said it would lay-

Research In Motion CEO Thorsten Heins THE CANADIAN PRESS

off about 5,000 employees as it slashes costs across the organization to contend with faltering sales of its BlackBerry smartphones and a quickly eroding stock price.

In morning trading on Tuesday, RIM's stock was down seven cents to $7.47 on the Toronto Stock Exchange.

Heins acknowledged the company faces a challenge to regain market share in the United States, but insisted RIM isn't in a "death spiral."

"There's nothing wrong with the company as it exists right now," Heins said on CBC's Metro Morning radio show.

Heins said the major changes RIM has made to its management and business objectives since he became CEO in January are part of a massive transition to a whole new technology platform.

He said sales in other parts of the world remain strong and argued the transition to the BlackBerry 10 will be a completely different way for RIM to address mobile computing.

But before that launch sometime early next year, RIM needs to survive the rest of 2012. Many analysts expect that will be particularly challenging as the company tries to market its older lineup of smartphones to savvy North American users who could easily switch to Android phones or the new Apple iPhone expected sometime this fall.

RIM is turning to its global customer base in hopes that will keep sales afloat in the meantime. Some of its older phones are still relatively new in some regions. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Lending. BMO predicts key rate will remain low

The Bank of Montreal predicted Tuesday that the Bank of Canada will keep its key interest rate low for longer than it expected.

Economists at the bank are now predicting that the central bank will not raise its key rate until July 2013, six months later than their earlier prediction of January 2013.

The rate affects the prime lending rates at banks and in turn influences all kinds of interest rates including those charged to variable rate mortgages and lines of credit.

But BMO mortgage expert

Laura Parsons urged prospective home buyers to choose fixed-rate mortgages, which are also near record lows.

"While interest rates have been at historic lows, the inevitable climb will happen," said Parsons. "Choosing a fixed mortgage can provide protection against rising rates and make the cost of owning a home more manageable in the long run."

Ottawa moved last month to tighten mortgage rules for the fourth time in as many years in an effort to cool the housing market. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chuck E. Cheese has been given the pink slip.

The company that operates the chain of children's pizza restaurants is retiring the giant rodent's outdated image — and the man who voiced its character for nearly two decades.

CEC Entertainment Inc. says it plans to launch a U.S. ad campaign Thursday with a revamped image of Chuck E. Cheese as a hip, electric-guitar-playing rock star.

It's just the latest makeover for the 35-year-old mascot, which started life as a New Jersey rat who sometimes carried a cigar.

CEC Entertainment, based in Irving, Texas, is struggling to revive sales at its more than 500 pizza restaurants, which offer games, prizes and a musical variety show.

In May, CEC said revenue at its locations open at least a year fell 4.2 per cent in the first quarter and lowered its outlook for the year.

The new Chuck E. Cheese that launches this week will be voiced by Jaret Reddick, the lead singer for the pop-punk band Bowling for Soup. The details of Chuck E.'s new image will be unveiled this week. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

JUST
metronews.ca/justsayin'

I'm always looking for a new experience, so I've decided to sign up for a triathlon: swim, cycle, run; one immediately after another.

A lot of people are fierce and brave, and they like to tackle the Ironman triathlon, which consists of a 3.96-kilometre swim, a 180.25-km bike ride and a 42.2-km marathon, without any rest or dying in between.

I am not an iron man. More like a straw man, so I thought I'd start with a "sprint triathlon," which sounds very zippy, doesn't it? A sprint is to the Ironman what a Yaris is to an F-350 pickup: 700-m swim, 20-km bike ride, 5-km run. There's less chance of sinking like a stone at about 2.57 km into the swim or falling off your bike into a ditch at 127 km, or wandering into traffic, dehydrated and disoriented, around 37 km into the marathon.

Still, this "sprint," which occurs on July 22 (why are my palms sweating already?) has its challenges, not the least being I've never done all three of these things in a row on the same day, and rarely in the same month.

The main challenge, as far as I can tell, is getting through the transition, which means getting from the pool and onto the bike, then off the bike and into running shoes, all while the clock is ticking. The "three Ts" are key to transition: towels, talcum powder and tugging, not necessarily in that order. It's also important not to get confused and cycle in your swim goggles or run in your bike helmet, all of which apparently happen. How would I know? I've never even watched a triathlon.

Which might lead you to ask why I'm doing this. Well, it was either this or one of those river cruises along the Seine. Both of them involve going someplace exotic; either Paris or the pool at UBC. But the river cruise costs $7,000; registering for the triathlon? $68.

No contest.

Two weeks after the Point Grey Sprint Triathlon, on Aug. 7, is a similar event called the London Olympic Triathlon. While I'm just starting out, the great Canadian gold medalist (2000 Sydney Games) Simon Whitfield is in the twilight of his career and will be competing in one last Olympics before he retires, a geezer at 37.

Even though I can spot Simon a couple of years, once again, there are some similarities. Expectations are the key. On Aug. 7, the whole nation will be holding its breath, hoping that Simon is able to win gold one last time. On July 22, my wife will be holding her breath, hoping that I at least make it out of the pool.

OK. So what did you want for $68?

He's no Paul Sullivan, but Simon Whitfield, right, will still compete at the Olympics one last time. RICHARD LAUTENS/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

London launches largest string of summer events

Elizabeth Streb's dancers perform in front of Tower Bridge at the launch of the Mayor of London Presents cultural events program on Tuesday in London, England.

The Mayor of London, Boris Johnson, launched an unprecedented program of free cultural events. From daredevil dancers choreographed by Elizabeth Streb to unusual car-park art exhibitions including the work of artists such as Jeff Koons, David Hockney and Andy Warhol for BMW ART DRIVE presented by the ICA.

This will be the biggest ever outdoor cultural festival the capital has seen, brought to you by the Mayor of London and London 2012 Festival.

To help visitors navigate through all of the excitement, the mayor also launched a free smartphone app Tuesday, which provides users with information on the festival as well as the city's events, attractions and recommendations on the best restaurants. The app uses Google Maps technology for easy touring.

Hollywood has long been a fan of movie reboots. Spider-Man is the latest flick to get a new actor makeover

IN FOCUS

Richard Crouse
scene@metronews.ca

The adage, "The only constant is change," is only partially true in Hollywood. The list of recent movie reboots is as long as Lindsay Lohan's arrest record, and there's more on the way — we'll soon see new versions of Death Wish, Fletch and Highlander — but while the titles stay the same, the faces change.

This weekend, Peter Parker swings back into theatres, but instead of Tobey Maguire behind the familiar red-and-black-webbed mask it's Social Network star Andrew Garfield.

Not everyone is happy about the change. 1234zoomer commented on the new movie: "IS NOT GOING TO BE THE SAME WITHOUT TOBBY!!!," (her uppercase and spelling, not mine), but Maguire has been gracious, saying, "I am excited to see the next chapter unfold in this incredible story."

Whether the new Spidey acknowledges Maguire is yet to be seen, but at least one replacement had the manners to recognize their precursor on screen.

George Lazenby paid a tongue-in-cheek tribute to Sean Connery in On Her Majesty's Secret Service. After a wild battle to rescue Contessa Teresa (played by Diana Rigg) the new James Bond didn't get the girl. "This never happened to the other fellow," he says, looking dejectedly into the camera.

Former Bond Connery went on to co-star in The Hunt for Red October with Alec Baldwin playing Jack Ryan, a character later played by Harrison Ford and Ben Affleck.

It's rumoured that Chris Pine (who took over the part of Captain Kirk in Star Trek from William Shatner) will soon reprise the role.

also had a revolving cast. Since 1943 seven actors have played the Caped Crusader, including Lewis G. Wilson, who at 23 remains the youngest actor to play the character, and George Clooney who admits he was "really bad" in Batman & Robin.

It's not only the Caped Crusader who changes from time to time. Harvey Dent, the handsome district attorney who turns into villain Two Face has been played by Billy Dee Williams, Tommy Lee Jones and Aaron Eckhart and The Dark Knight's Maggie Gyllenhaal took over the role of Rachel Dawes from Batman Begins star Katie Holmes.

Finally, Jodie Foster's take on FBI agent Clarice Starling in Silence of the Lambs was ranked the sixth greatest protagonist in film history on AFI's 100 Years... 100 Heroes and Villains list, but when she declined to reprise the role in Hannibal, Julianne Moore stepped in.

The Kodiak Walmart had more than 35,000 "likes" Monday, more than five times the town's population.

Sleigh Bells' Reign of Terror continues

New music. Album plays homage to classic rock bands like Def Leppard and pop acts like Cyndi Lauper and the Go Go's

Sleigh Bells seemed to emerge fully formed, with a brutally unique sound of overblown guitars and vocals that alternated between pop-singer sweetness and cheerleader vengeance.

The Brooklyn duo's 2009 debut, Treats, landed on nearly every single year-end best-of list, including this publication's.

For their follow-up, Reign of Terror, released this spring, guitarist Derek Miller and singer Alexis Krauss decided to do away with some of the tricks of Treats in favour of more conventional sounds. But they put these sounds into a context that is anything but conventional.

When Sleigh Bells' first single, Crown on the Ground, made its initial rounds on the web, listeners thought there was something wrong with their speakers or earbuds, because Derek Miller's guitar was so maxed out. Jennifer Hudson sings new Lullaby

RAISHAD HARDNETT
Metro World News

When many people think of Jennifer Hudson's singing style, they think of a thunderous, room-shaking tone. But now, with her new Pampers-inspired adaptation of the classic Lullaby and Goodnight, the multi-talented performer shows a gentler, sweeter side. We caught up with Hudson last week to discuss her new lullaby recording and how she balances being a mom and a superstar.

How did you incorporate your experiences as a mom into this lullaby?

(By) imagining putting my baby to sleep: What do you want to say to your child? What do you want them to hear before they fall asleep to soothe them, to calm them down? That's why I did it. Anytime he calls me, I say, 'That's my baby.' I always tell him, 'I love your hugs, I love your kisses.' So, I really took it from being a mom, and the real experience of that.

Is it difficult balancing motherhood with your work life?

It can be. That's why I love being from Chicago and living in Chicago. After we had our son, we decided we wanted to go back home, because to me that's what keeps you grounded. That's what keeps the foundation. And then you have family there, which is what keeps something normal, at least for him. I wanted him to have as much of a normal childhood as possible, and I felt like that was the best way to do that — by going back home. And although he is always in my world and watching mommy work, and seeing daddy wrestling — that's different, that will always make him grow up different — if he still has that base, that foundation that we had growing up, then that, to us, is what's important.

What advice do you have for new parents?

I remember when I first had my baby, I wanted all the guests to go home, but I was so terrified of being home alone with him. It's natural to be terrified, but it falls into place. You just fall into it.

Most Canucks plan to hit the road in summer

An online survey of more than 1,500 people across Canada finds 55 per cent plan to take a vacation this summer. The Leger Marketing poll, conducted last week and released Friday, found the average spending target for those who do plan to vacation in July or August was about $1,700. Respondents from Alberta had the highest vacation budget, averaging nearly $2,300 while Quebec residents had the lowest spending target, at just over $1,300.

Evil glares at the airport security line, jam-packed yesterdays that lead to too-tired-to-take-another-step todays, and kids offering TMI to the customs officials. It's no wonder parents get the shakes at the thought of a family vacation. Trust me, I know. My husband and I just spent more than 365 days with our two sons under the age of 10 on an around-the-world trip. Sure, there were moments when my sanity was questionable, but by the time we got home we were all a little wiser about how to make sure we made it through. My hard-learned lessons are your gain. These five tips will help replace your family's whines of "are we there yet?" with, "is it over already?"

Don't let stressful moments steal your memories

Where we learned it: Beijing, China. The mission was to meet our phenomenal guide at the Forbidden City. We should've been there by nine. At 10, we were still standing in pouring rain trying desperately to hail a cab. When we finally found one and agreed on the exorbitantly high overcharge, we had the ride of our life. Thrilled with his windfall the driver regaled us with broken English stories that we still giggle at today. We eventually saw and were amazed by the Forbidden City but nothing compared to the taxi ride over.

Pack less stuff

Where we learned it: The Mekong Delta in Vietnam. Nothing will make you glad you didn't pack six pairs of shoes and three party dresses for a weekend away as a $6 deal on a lug-your-own-suitcase boat trip. There isn't a place in the world that doesn't have a laundry washing system or a place you can buy something in an emergency.

ways to keep the fun in your family vacation

Ditch the routines you can

Where we learned it: Cairo, Egypt. At home the kids go to bed at 8, breakfast is at 7 and new friends are rare. On this trip? Bedtime was when they fell asleep, breakfast could include ice cream and every day there was the possibility of adding a new friend. We told the kids it was an adventure and they thrived. So much so that when, in Cairo, we found ourselves playing table tennis on a street corner at midnight and no one blinked an eye. It turns out kids aren't as desperate for routine as we think and sometimes the thrill of a broken routine is needed.

The family that stays together loses their collective minds

Where we learned it: France. We went to the Eiffel Tower twice but the kids were still itching to climb it; I was not. So we made a deal and while my husband took them to the top, I roamed the Champs Elysees. The result was a happier mom at the end of the day and a dad who knew I owed him one. (He cashed in with a boys night later on no questions asked.) While recharging your mojo remember to keep the self-imposed guilt to a minimum. There's nothing in the family vacation rulebook that says you aren't entitled to a vacation too.

Bring your phone

Where we learned it: Philadelphia, Penn. We're so connected at home that a summer vacation can seem like the perfect time to disconnect. Do it if you must but remember that it's not the phone that's the problem, it's what you do with it and how often. Our trip was changed for the better because we had access to Twitter, Facebook and YouTube along the way.

Grilled Chicken and Creamy Curry Sauce turns up the heat

This recipe bathes boneless, skinless chicken thighs in a delicious curry marinade. The thighs then get tossed on the grill.

Meanwhile, a bit of the marinade (which was reserved before the chicken was added) is blended with low-fat sour cream for a rich condiment to be dolloped on the chicken after it comes off

Ingredients

- 1 cup chicken broth
- 1 small onion, quartered
- 1/2 head garlic, cloves peeled
- 1-inch chunk fresh ginger
- 1-inch chunk fresh turmeric
- 2 sprigs fresh curry leaves
- 2-inch cinnamon stick
- 1/2 tsp cumin seeds
- 1/2 tsp black peppercorns
- 1/4 tsp ground coriander
- 1 tsp salt
- Juice of 1/2 lemon
- 1/4 cup honey
- 1 1/2 lbs boneless, skinless chicken thighs
- 1 cup low-fat sour cream

the grill. The result is a moist and richly flavoured chicken curry that is as comfortable solo on a paper plate at a barbecue as it is on a plate of rice indoors.

1. In a blender, combine the chicken broth, onion, garlic, ginger, turmeric, curry leaves, cinnamon stick, cumin seeds, peppercorns, coriander, salt, lemon juice and honey. Puree until very smooth. Transfer a third of the mixture to a small saucepan and set aside.

2. Pour the remaining mixture in a large zip-close plastic bag. Add the chicken thighs, then seal the bag and gently massage to ensure all of the meat is coated by the marinade. Refrigerate for at least 30 minutes, or up to overnight.

3. Meanwhile, set the saucepan of reserved marinade over medium heat. Bring to a simmer and cook until reduced and quite thick, about 10 minutes. Set aside to cool.

4. When ready to cook, heat the grill to medium-high. Coat the grates with oil using an oil-soaked paper towel grasped with tongs.

5. Remove the chicken from the marinade. Discard the marinade. Place the chicken on the grill and cook for 6 to 7 minutes per side, or until the meat reaches 165 F.

6. While the chicken cooks, in a small bowl combine the reserved marinade and the sour cream. To serve, drizzle the sour cream mixture over the chicken.

Lunch lesson.

Any business meal can turn into an opportunity. Be prepared.

ISHANI NATH

It's the other type of brunch and it's not nearly as relaxing. Business lunches are a major part of corporate culture.

The biggest mistake that young hires make at business lunches is assuming that being out of the office means they are no longer in a professional setting, says Linda Allan, a professional etiquette expert and president of Linda Allan Inc. "It doesn't matter how formal or informal the setting, the same standard of etiquette applies."

What standard is that you ask? Well, let's start at the beginning.

Pre-lunch

Dress appropriately. If you're going straight from work, this shouldn't be a problem, but if you're meeting someone, make sure you leave the plaid shirt and short shorts behind. Business lunch means business wear.

Show up early

Punctuality and professionalism go hand in hand and

TalentEgg Tip

- For that added touch, Allan recommends sending a handwritten card after the meeting to thank your host for lunch. It doesn't have to be fancy, just a few sentences to show your appreciation and leave a more memorable impression on your host.

the best way to avoid being late is to show up a bit early. Allan recommends arriving around 10 minutes before your meeting.

If you get to the restaurant before your host, wait in the lobby area. Don't get seated until your lunch partner has arrived.

What's on the menu?

When it comes to ordering, play follow the leader. If your host orders a salad, don't order the filet mignon. Try to match the price point and number of courses as your dining buddy.

The same rules apply for drinks. If your host orders alcohol, Allan says students can order a "big kid" drink as well, but at a lunch, it's by no means necessary. If you decide to sip on the good stuff, limit yourself to one order and drink it slowly.

Talking shop

The host generally decides when it's time to get down to business, says Allan, "all you have to do as an invitee to the lunch is follow the lead of the host." If you have questions that you really want answered, wait until after you've ordered and given your menus to the waiter. That will allow enough time for small talk and ensure that you get your answers.

Formal goodbye

The host will signal the end of the lunch, so again, just follow the leader. When the time comes, make sure to get up, shake their hands and thank them for their time. Much like a good dessert, you want to make sure that you end the meal sweetly.

Great expectations for Britain's Murray

Wimbledon. May finally be Andy Murray's year after easy win against Cilic, exit of Nadal

The lofty expectations placed on Great British Hope Andy Murray every year at Wimbledon ramped up several notches following Rafael Nadal's surprising exit.

So far, Murray is coping pretty well.

Even when dealing with a rare venture away from Centre Court, the fourth-seeded Murray easily dispatched Marin Cilic between rain showers in the round of 16 on Tuesday, showing no sign of the increased pressure he has been under since Nadal opened up the bottom half of the draw by losing to the unheralded Lukas Rosol in the second round on Thursday.

Murray was given a standing ovation by a jubilant Court One crowd after his 7-5, 6-2, 6-3 victory over Cilic, who won the grass-court Queen's Club title in the run-up to Wimbledon.

Murray is now just two wins away from becoming the first British man to reach the final at the All England Club since Bunny Austin in 1938. Next up is a quarter-final match against seventh-seeded David Ferrer, who reached Wimbledon's last eight for the first time with a victory over 2009 U.S. Open champion Juan Martin del Potro.

Given the domestic hype surrounding Murray, it promises to be the standout match of the four all-European quarter-finals Wednesday.

Also on Tuesday, Florian Mayer of Germany beat Richard Gasquet to set up a match against top-seeded Novak Djokovic.

Germany will have two players in the quarter-finals after Philipp Kohlschreiber beat Brian Baker, ending the American's remarkable run at his first Wimbledon. Kohlschreiber will play fifth-seeded Jo-Wilfried Tsonga of France, while the other quarter-final will be No. 3-ranked Roger

Two-bucket solution

Grit Guard is introducing its colour-coded Dual-Bucket Washing System to its cleaning products lineup. The black bucket contains only clean wash solution, so after dunking your wash mitt and washing for a bit, you then rinse the mitt in the red bucket. Dunk the mitt back into the black bucket for more washing solution, etc. Both buckets feature Grit Guard's removable inserts that keep the washed-off crud at the bottom of the bucket, reducing the possibility of paint scratches or swirl marks. The buckets sit in their own dollies with casters and have individual lids. A seat cushion included with the kit converts one bucket into a handy stool. The Dual-Bucket System sells for $130 US and is offered directly from gritguard.com.

Active Understeer

On the road, the Altima uses Active Understeer Control. During turning, light braking is applied to the inside wheel to counteract the natural tendency for the car to continue in straight line. Also assisting is Nissan's Easy Fill Tire Alert that was initially installed in the Quest minivan.

Interior

The interior offers about the same passenger and trunk volume as before, but a concerted effort was undertaken to replace or recover hard-plastic surfaces with soft-touch materials. Another area of focus was noise reduction, achieved by adding more sound-absorbing materials around the car.

2013 Nissan Altima

- Type: Four-door, front-wheel-drive mid-size sedan.
- Engine (hp): 2.5-litre DOHC I4 (182); 3.5-litre DOHC V6 (270).
- Mileage: L/100 km (city/hwy) 7.4/5.0 (2.5).
- Base Price (incl. destination): $25,300.

Engine

The base 2.5-litre four-cylinder's output has notched up to 182 horsepower from the previous 175 due to a new valve train. An all-new continuously variable transmission offers fewer moving parts (reducing friction) and electronic-control improvements so that it more closely mimics a traditional multi-speed automatic.

Nissan has reduced the Altima's overall weight by about 33 kilograms.

Review. The Altima reset the bar for the family car back in 2002. Look what a decade has done

MALCOLM GUNN
Wheelbase Media

First impressions are often lasting ones, and for new-car buyers they can also make the difference between closing the deal right then and there or searching elsewhere.

Where the 2013 Nissan Altima is concerned, most shoppers' reactions will be, "Whoa!"

The outgoing Altima that has been around since the 2007 model year was certainly no mutt, but the new car really shows that its best-before date has come and gone. The mid-size sedan presents a graceful face, with a grille and headlight pods that almost appear to melt into the stylish fenders. The windshield pillars have a bit more rake to them to help reduce aerodynamic drag.

At the opposite end, the knife-edge-style tail lights neatly encircle the fenders and the trunk lid's spoiler is integrated as part of the sheet metal. Viewed in profile, the Altima doesn't appear significantly changed, but the fancier chrome door handles and similarly coated trim pieces throughout attest to the car's more glamorous presence.

The base 2.5 model's pricing begins at $25,300 (including delivery to the dealer) and includes all the usual bells and whistles. From that point, S, SV and SL models pile on the content, but can add more than $9,000 to the base price with luxuries such as heated front seats leather interior, heated steering wheel and a power moonroof.

The Altima's impressively restyled sheet metal and interior appointments, matched with seriously improved fuel economy, serve notice that this Nissan has what it takes to melt into the stylish fenders.

"Whoa," indeed.

If you recall, Nissan/Infiniti began offering "self-healing" exterior paint. More unusual technology follows as the company has "zero gravity" front seats for the Altima that reduce pressure on the spine and improve blood flow. Of course, NASA was the influence.

Remember when taillights were on the back of a car and the headlights were on the front? With the right curves and thoughtful integration of chrome, the Altima can finally be called a pretty car.

Volvo's new airbag designed for pedestrians

Driving Force. All cars focus on protecting the driver and passengers, but this feature takes safety to another level

drive@metronews.ca

In any collision between a vehicle and a pedestrian, the pedestrian always loses. While that will never change, Volvo is counting on its new pedestrian airbag to help reduce the severity of injuries when cars and people collide.

While other airbags are inside the vehicle, this new airbag is under the hood. When sensors in the front bumper detect that someone has been struck, the airbag deploys, lifting the rear of the hood slightly, and covering the area around the windshield wipers and pillars.

Raising the hood lifts it away from the engine, important because many pedestrians are injured when the hood buckles and they're slammed against the hard engine components below. The wiper and pillar areas are also hard and more likely to cause serious injury.

Coming in the future

- The pedestrian airbag is currently available on the all-new V40, a model that won't be sold in Canada, but will be rolled out to other Volvo vehicles in future.

"When the car is travelling between 20 and 50 km/h and it senses that it's impacting a pedestrian's leg, a number of things are actuated," says Thomas Broberg, senior technical advisor for safety at Volvo Cars.

"One of the joints at the rear end of the hood is released pyrotechnically, and then the airbag lifts the hood at the same time it's deploying over the wiper area. Then spring-loaded joints kick in to keep the hood in position. There are a lot of things that happen at the same time, and it's in milliseconds."

It was a challenge to develop the airbag, since temperatures in the engine compartment fluctuate considerably, and it must be protected from moisture.

"The sensors along the bumper recognize the impact of a human-like mass and form, compared to other objects that you might hit, like a grocery store cart," Broberg says.

"It doesn't go off if the car isn't moving, so if people are coming home from the pub and they start kicking cars, they can kick as long as they want, and it won't go off. And it won't go off if you're working under the hood, unless you're trying to repair your car when it's travelling at 50 km/h."

Some Volvo vehicles automatically brake when they sense a pedestrian walking out in front.

Broberg says that at lower speeds, the collision might be avoided entirely.

If the car is travelling above the airbag's 50 km/h threshold, the auto-braking might not be able to stop the car in time, but could potentially bring the speed down to the point that the airbag would deploy and help to reduce human injury.

Horoscope

♈ Aries | March 21 - April 20.

You know what needs to be done and you know you have what it takes to make a good job of it — so what are you waiting for? Act now!

♉ Taurus | April 21 - May 21.

You may be having second thoughts about a project you are involved with, but planets warn it'd be wrong to make changes at this stage.

♊ Gemini | May 22 - June 20.

What people say and what they mean will be two different things today. Assume that nothing you hear can be taken for granted.

♋ Cancer | June 21 - July 22.

You may find yourself at a loss to explain why certain things are happening but your senses tell you they are, so all you can really do is decide how to react. Doing something is better than doing nothing.

♌ Leo | July 23 - Aug. 22.

Mercury in your sign will help you outsmart those who think you can be easily manipulated. They're wrong.

♍ Virgo | Aug. 23 - Sept. 22.

Chances are you will mislead yourself about something today — the kind of thing that 99 times out of 100 would not fool you at all.

♎ Libra | Sept. 23 - Oct. 22.

You know your way of looking at the world is best but you won't be able to convince loves ones and work colleagues of that today. They have as much right to be wrong as you.

♏ Scorpio | Oct. 23 - Nov. 21.

You will hear something you do not agree with today but don't make an issue of it. Others can rant and rave, and make fools of themselves if they so wish, but you know it is better to be self-controlled.

♐ Sagittarius | Nov. 22 - Dec.

21. Today's cosmic activity will encourage you to focus on down-to-earth matters such as how to pay the bills and make ends meet.

♑ Capricorn | Dec. 22 - Jan.

20. Do whatever it takes to avoid feelings of doom today. If you get stuck in a bad mood now, you may not be able to snap out of it until the weekend at the earliest.

♒ Aquarius | Jan. 21 - Feb. 18.

Don't try to second guess partners and loved ones today because there is a danger you will get it wrong.

♓ Pisces | Feb. 19 - March 20.

You may think you know what's going on at work, but do you? Mercury's link to Pluto warns you may have logic twisted, so try to stand back from the situation and see the wider picture. SALLY BROMPTON
